BOND SELLING DRIVE PLANNED TO FREE CASH

Anti-Hoarding Commission Designs Plans To Lure Money into Circulation.

RESEMBLES WAR LOAN

Treasury To Issue Low Denomination Notes To Attract Small Investors.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 18- Plans for a government bond selling campaign to decrease hoarding—patterned after the first Liberty loan drives- were announced today by Colonel Frank Knox, chairman of President Hoover's anti-hoarding commission.

The securities to be issued by the treasury, designed specifically to draw money out of teapots and safety deposit boxes, Knox said, will be in low denominations

Details of the issue, however, remain to be worked out at a conference with Secretary Mills of the treasury department

"I anticipate only one difficulty," Knox said It is getting a sufficient quantity of securities from the treasury to satisfy the demand for them"

Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, conferred with the President immediately before making the announcement.

"In the past week or two," he began "I have been in touch with every part of the country in connection with the movement to stop hoarding

"From every quarter comes an insistent demand that this committee provide the people whose money is out of circulation a sane and secure substitute for money now cached in teapots and safety deposits boxes.

"The demand can be met only by an issue of securities that has the whole power of the government behind it. I have said as much to the President and Secretary Mills"

CORPORATION AT WORK

Millions Pour into U. S. Business Structure in Two Weeks.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 18—Millions upon millions of dollars have been poured into the American business structure during the past two weeks by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Working quietly, the credit organization has devoted its first attention to small banks. These institutions, which might have been forced to close, have resumed their normal functions, according to reports reaching the corporation. The total aready distributed is reliably estimated at more than $100,000,000, exclusive of $50,000,000 turned over to the department of agriculture

Sizeable loans have gone to two hard pressed railroads, the Wabash, already in the hands of a receiver, and the Missouri-Pacific.

In the department of agriculture machinery has been perfected for handling the $50,000,000 set aside for the especial use of agriculture.

PAINLEVE NEW HEAD OF FRENCH CABINET

Laval Successor Expected To Continue Predecessor's Stand on Disarmament.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Feb. 18—Former Premier Paul Painleve, son of a baker, noted mathematician and one of France's most popular statesmen, today accepted an invitation from President Paul Doumer to form a cabinet to succeed that of Premier Pierre Laval which resigned Tuesday.

One of Painleve's slogans is "no disarmament without security against invasion," so it was expected that if he succeeded in forming a ministry there will be no change in the French disarmament program at Geneva.

Painleve indicated he would like to see Andre Tardieu, war minister in Laval's cabinet, become foreign minister in the new ministry so he could continue his activities at the disarmament conference with authority. It was understood that Tardieu was insisting that Laval also be included in the new cabinet.

DE VALERA AHEAD' BY SMALL MARGIN

By The Associated Press

DUBLIN, Feb. 18—Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail party maintained a slight lead over President Cosgrave's government party with returns from slightly more than one-fourth of the election district contests tabulated this morning.

Both De Valera and Cosgrave were returned in their own districts by overwhelming votes in Cork City.

All indications were that the final result, upon which probably depends the election of De Valera or Cosgrave as president of the Free State, would be very close.

Expect 2,000 Participants and Visitors Here for Annual Central Ohio Music Contest Monday; Group Charters Train.

Marion will be host to the largest gathering of musicians and singers ever brought together in central Ohio on one occasion, when the 1932 eisteddfod opens Monday afternoon at the Palace theater.

The entries have been so heavy that the Marion Concert association, sponsors of the music festival have felt the need of obtaining two assistant adjudicators. Heretofore the central Ohio eisteddfod has required the services of the adjudicator and one assistant

LEWIS BOUND TO GRAND JURY

Will Be Prosecuted on Charge of Robbing Filling Station Here.

BOND IS SET AT $2,000

Car Used in Holdup Last April Was Stolen from Johnson Curl.

Cecil D Lewis, 24, of this city, whose arrest last Friday afternoon the police say clears up 12 robberies in various parts of the state in the last 18 months was bound over to the Marion county grand jury by Municipal Judge W. R Martin yesterday afternoon and his bond fixed at $2000 Lewis who is in the county jail, did not appear in court, he was represented by his attorney, Fred W Warner who waived the reading of the affidavit and the preliminary hearing.

Charged With Station Robbery

Decision to try Lewis in this city rather than turn him over to any of the other six cities where he is wanted as a suspect in robberies, was reached by police officials yesterday. It was first thought he would be turned over to the Lima police who want him in connection with the holding up of a building and loan company It was later decided, however that the charge held against him by the local police, that of holding up R F Smith, a collector for the Shell Petroleum Corp. at a filling station on Kenton avenue, was as serious as any held against him by the other cities.

The affidavit filed against him in municipal court yesterday, charged him with taking $200 from Smith on April 20

Lewis was arrested Friday afternoon after he had been in the city for less than 24 hours Police said Friday night that he had admitted taking part in a series of crimes unmatched in number by any per-

BUCYRUS MAN OUT FOR CONGRESS POST

C. F. Schaber Is Third Democrat To Enter Eighth District Race.

Charles F. Schaber of Bucyrus, former Crawford county probate judge, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for congress from the Eighth district, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Bucyrus.

He is the third candidate in the field. Brooks Fletcher and John A. Key, both of this city, have announced their candidacies for the same post. All are Democrats.

Schaber has practiced law in Bucyrus for more than 30 years. He was first mentioned as a probable candidate several months ago.

Carl W. Smith of Kenton, secretary to Governor White, recently withdrew his candidacy stating that injuries suffered in an automobile accident would prevent him from conducting an active campaign.

The Eighth district is composed of Marion, Morrow, Hardin, Wyandot, Crawford and Hancock counties.

ROHE TALKS TO KIWANIANS

State Senator Explains Workings of New Ohio Tax Law.

SAYS TEST IS REQUIRED

Expected To Be Beneficial to Owners of Farms and Homes.

Robert L. Rohe of Tiffin, state senator from the Thirteenth-Thirty-first district, spoke to Marion Kiwanians today at Hotel Harding.

Mr Rohe is a candidate for re-election to the state senate. He is chairman of the state finance committee.

"Taxation and State Finances" was the subject chosen by Senator Rohe for discussion before club members He delved into the complicated details of both the state's new taxing setup, and the financial outlook for Ohio in 1932, injecting many interesting comments on both

He first took up the states's new taxation system under the constitutional amendment, explaining that the general assembly, in setting up the new system, was guided by the principle that it should "replace revenues existing under the uniformlaw," which was abolished by the amendment; that the loss in

SENATE TO APPROVE CREDIT BILL TODAY

Quick Action Appears Certain; Hoover Signature Possible Yet This Week.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 - The career of the credit expansion bill carried it today to almost certain passage by the senate before nightfall.

Described as designed to instill courage in American bankers who hold idle funds and securities, the proposal met no opposition in the first hours of consideration.

Because of divergences between terms of the senate bill and a companion measure passed by the house, the senate vote probably will be followed by adjustment in conference Final action and signature of the bill by President Hoover still is possible within the week.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, sponsor of the legislation, carried the brunt of yesterday's talks with a detailed explanation of the plan's purposes. "Ten minutes" was the length of time he set for the bill to show its benefits.

AUDITOR MAILS BLANKS TODAY

Personal Returns Must Be Filed with County Official by March 31.

HALF DUE IMMEDIATELY

Part of Tax Must Be Paid When Property Is Listed.

The Marion county machinery for collecting personal property tax under the new Ohio tax laws was put in motion this morning by County Auditor Earl I. Thomas

Blanks on which taxpayers must list their personal property were mailed out to 4194 individuals and 200 corporations this afternoon Before March 31, the deadline, these blanks must be filled out and filed with the County Auditor, accompanied by one half of the amount of tax due on personal property this year One of the new features of the personal property tax law requires that payment of the first half tax be made simultaneously with the listing of the property.

Makes First Return

Mrs Isabelle Donithen of Waldo, wife of former Prosecutor Alfred Donithen was the first person to list personal property in Marion county A few moments after the equipment and supplies for receiving personal tax had been set up she listed her property and paid half her personal property tax Her husband was the second to list property and Harry Smith deputy auditor was third

Responsibility for obtaining a blank and listing personal property rests with the taxpayer, not with the auditor Mr Thomas declared this morning. Mailing out blanks to taxpayers is merely an accommodation, since it is not a duty of the auditor to see that each taxpayer is supplied, he explained. In mailing out blanks, the auditor did not send to persons who last year listed only the forms of personal property which were exempted under the new tax laws In other words persons who last year listed only an automobile and household goods not used in business will not receive a blank this year, since

Peace Parley Breaks Up as China Flatly Rejects Proposed Terms.

MAJOR OFFENSIVE LOOMS

Jap Demands Pictured by Chinese as "Intolerable and Unacceptable."

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18 — General Kenkichi Uyeda, commander of the Japanese forces in this area served an ultimatum tonight on General Tsai Ting-Kai ordering the Chinese to withdraw 12½ miles from Shanghai by sundown on Saturday.

This was the result of the failure of a peace parley earlier in the day, during which the Japanese submitted this identical demand and the Chinese representatives rejected it.

It was thought the ultimatum was a preliminary to the beginning of the long-awaited major offensive by Japan.

Troops Concentrated.

In preparation for that drive, the Japanese have concentrated an army of at least 25,000 men in this vicinity. The Chinese have twice that many soldiers and in the comparative quiet of the last few days they have been preparing a line of retreat in case they should be unable to withstand a mass attack

Airplanes have been brought up in considerable numbers by both sides and it was reported several days ago that the Japanese have a quantity of 500-pound aerial bombs.

The ultimatum was delivered while guns were in action in the Chapel sector in an artillery engagement which began immediately after the peace parley broke down.

In addition to demanding withdrawal from the immediate vicinity of Shanghai, Japan made as a condition of peace permanent dismantling of the Chinese forts at Woosung and Paoshan. The Chinese withdrawal, they stipulated, must take them back 12½ miles on both sides of the Shanghai river and the same distance from the mouth of the Shanghai.

Other Demands Made

It was to be stipulated that the withdrawal be observed by Japanese aviators as an assurance that it would be carried out properly.

Japan Sees Hand of U. S. in Note

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Feb. 18 - Foreign office circles said today official information had reached Tokyo that the first draft of the League of Nation's council's note to Japan yesterday on the Sino-Japanese controversy had emanated from American sources.

How Japan would reply had not been decided but official opinion favored questioning the legality of the council's procedure. The note appealed to "the supreme sense of honor of Japan" to cease hostilities in China.

"There are strong indications America had a finger in this pie," an official declared. He declared, however, that the first draft was much more mild in form than the note finally received.

State Senator Explains Workings of New Ohio Tax Law.

decreased revenue should be replaced by a new tax on tangible property to the extent of limitations provided in the amendment or in any other statutory changes.

Will Require Test

After explaining in detail the operation of the new tax on intangibles, he stated that "it will require the test of actual operation to determine how successful Ohio's new intangible tax law will be." He claimed for the intangible law of substantial benefit to the home the following benefits: "It will be owner and the farm owner in that real estate will be relieved, according to the best estimates available, of approximately $9,000,000 of taxes which it has been bearing, and in addition to this, tax on household goods and personal property not used in business has been removed; there will be no incentive under the new law for Ohio citizens to place their wealth outside of the state; the tax on intangibles will be equitably apportioned among those who own intangibles; the taxation of tangible personal property will be on a uniform basis, with many inequalities which formerly existed now eliminated.

Senator Rohe presumed that Ohio voters, in adopting the constitutional amendment in 1929, did not favor an income tax. "It is impossible for any one to measure or even approximately estimate the results of the intangible law until it has had a fair trial," Rohe said, "but it can be said that in its enactment the assembly obeyed the mandate of the peo, , when they approved the amendment."

Senator Rohe stated that the revised automobile license fee schedule did not receive his support. Prior to its adoption, only 48 per cent of the automobiles in the state were listed for taxation on the personal property blank, he said.

Discusses Finances

Swinging into a discussion of state finances, the senator explained that indirect, not direct, taxes support the state government, including a franchise tax paid by domestic and foreign corporations for the privilege of doing business in Ohio, the taxes paid by insurance companies, and the excise taxes paid by public utilities.

The state finance committee pared the original budget requests from $100,000,000 to $66,000,000 by months of work. To bridge the gap between the estimated expenditures amounting to this figure and the estimated revenue of approximately $60,000,000, the legislature passed the cigaret tax, which is expected to raise $6,000,000, Senator Rohe explained.

The senator listed the expenses of the state welfare department and the state aid for weak school districts as two functions of the state necessitating additional revenues for 1932.

southern outskirts of the city would be dismantled under the terms of these demands, and until the Chinese army had reached the 12½ mile limit Japanese troops would remain where they are.

These conditons, the Chinese described as "intolerable and absolutely unacceptable."

The Chinese force can withdraw, they said, only if the Japanese retire simultaneously. As for the other demands, the military leaders of the Chinese forces said their discussion was entirely outside the military jurisdiction.

Thereupon the parley ended abruptly and in a very brief time the cannonading was resumed in Chapel.

Man Uses Relief Money To Buy Liquor, Is Fined

Money provided needy Marion families by the city relief department is not to be used to buy liquor. Judge W. R. Martin of municipal court spent little time in deciding this question yesterday afternoon when he fined a man $25 and costs on a charge of intoxication when it was revealed that liquor had been purchased with money obtained through the relief department. The man was taken to the county jail to serve out the fine.

According to Relief Commissioner C. M. Tobin, the man, who has a family of six children, had been obtaining grocery orders from the city for some time. In order to give the family some cash he was given two days work on the streets by Service Director E. O. Uncapher. Upon receiving the money from the city instead of using it for the benefit of his family, police said he bought liquor. Four dollars and fifty cents found in his possession by the police when he was arrested was turned over to his wife by Police Chief W. E. Marks.

"The unusually heavy fine for the intoxication charge was given because he bought liquor with money that should have gone to his needy family," Judge Martin said. The usual fine for intoxication is $10 and costs. The relief department will continue to aid the family while the father is in jail.

ALLIANCE, O, Feb 18—Alliance has written "finis" to its venture into the ownership of a railroad. A railroad built by a previous administration to haul timber from the city farm was sold yesterday for $27.50 to a coal mine operator who bought it for the ties and rails.

SLEEPY, BUT NO SLEEP

Tired, but No Rest— Acidity's Toll

Another night of counting sheep—another night of frantic trying and scheming for sleep—another day of untold weariness. How long will you be able to stand up under it? Yet sleeplessness is only one of the penalties of an acid condition.

Magnesia Oxoids, developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way. Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active oxygen, which does the three things necessary to correct acidity—stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks intestinal putrefaction, promotes bowel action. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids today and take two after each meal. See how much better you feel. If not more than surprised with the results, your money back. GERMANY URGES DRASTIC ARMS CUT

"Germany is already disarmed," Nadolny said, "and German disarmament must be considered indicative of the direction the disarmament of all other members of the league must follow."

Very Disfiguring Case of Eczema Over Face. Cuticura Healed.

"I had a very disfiguring and uncomfortable case of eczema. It broke out in pimples all over my face and itched and burned so much that I unconsciously rubbed it and it spread all over my arms and neck. I lost weight and could hardly sleep.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. It relieved the irritation and I was able to sleep. I purchased more and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three or four boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss L Dennis, 3412 S. Founders' Day Observed by Local P.-T. Council

A joint celebration of Founders' day and the George Washington bicentennial was held last night at Central Junior High school by the Marion Council of Parent-Teachers' associations.

The auditorium was filled with members from all parts of the city. Hosts for the occasion were members of the Central school association.

Martin Verburg substituted as principal speaker in the absence of Mrs. W. J. Davis of Radnor, director of the central district, who is ill with laryngitis. Mr. Verburg gave an interesting history of the Founders' day celebration, telling something of the organization of the first Parent-Teachers' association and the growth of the movement.

A colorful part of the program was the candle lighting service led by Mrs. Frank Knapp, president of the city council. A large birthday cake decorated in the association colors of blue and gold, and decorated with seven blue and gold candles, was lighted.

The center candle was lighted in honor of George Washington, first president of the United States, and Alice McClelland Birney and Phoebe Hearst, founders of the Parent-Teacher movement.

The six surrounding candles were lighted for the past presidents of the city association, Mrs John Oborn, Mrs. Frank McKeever, Mrs. Guy Hulse, who is now living in St. Louis, Mo, Mrs E. R. Houser, Mrs. E H Morgan and Mrs. Catherine Dennig Smith.

Pieces of the cake were sold and the proceeds given to George A Bowman, superintendent of schools, to help defray the cost of the four reels of film depicting the life of Washington, which were shown last night and will be shown in the schools

The Mother Singer choruses of the city joined in singing "Where Potomac's Stream is Flowing," directed by Mrs C E. Turley, leader of the East Side Mother singers

The program opened with prayer by Mrs Turley and a selection by a marimba band composed of Miss Thelma Harden and three of her pupils, Pauline Bryant, Kenneth Ault and Joe Williams. Mrs. L. J. Black sang a solo, "The Tree of the P.-T. A" and H. A. Koehlinger played a group of accordion selections Mrs Grover Snyder was in charge of the program.

The next council meeting will be held March 10 at the Pearl Street school building.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN HOGAN

Ran County Home

Mr. and Mrs. Hogan were married by the late Rev. Father James A. Burns in the old St. Mary's church which stood on north Prospect street. They have spent the half century of their married life in the county. Fifteen of the 50 years were spent as superintendent and matron of the Marion county home from 1885 until 1900. Ten years ago they left their farm west of Marion to live in Marion.

Mrs. Hogan was born in Canada June 14, 1860, to Edward and Mary Burke, natives of Ireland, and moved to Marion with her parents when three years of age. Mr. Hogan was born in a log house which stood at the corner of Columbia and Cherry streets March 24, 1858. His parents were David Hogan and Bridget Morairty Hogan, also natives of Ireland.

Retired Farmer

Mr. Hogan was always actively engaged in farming until his retirement, and when a boy spent his vacations working in the country. He has seen the city grow from a small community and recalls that the home of his parents was regarded as being pretty close to the country with its surroundings of pasture lands and trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Hogan have one son David J. Hogan of Oak Grove avenue, two grandsons, John E. Hogan residing at the corner of Columbia and Cherry streets and Clifford R. Hogan of Oak Grove avenue and one great-grandson Gene Alan Hogan.

Mrs. Hogan is a member of St. Mary's Altar society and the Sewing circle. Mr. Hogan is affiliated with the Knights of Columbus Catholic Knights of Ohio, Holy Name society and Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks.

ENGLAND MAY SEND NEW CUP CHALLENGE

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 18—Despite the death of Sir Thomas Lipton, believed to be the only British yachtsman who could afford to challenge for the America's cup there are indications that another British challenger may be forthcoming soon.

The British racing union adopted a resolution, addressed to the New York Yacht club, which holds the trophy, requesting that suggestions be considered for modifying the present rules of construction of the masts of yachts in the cup class.

From Tokio comes the report that the Japanese are beginning to worry about the strength of China, fearing they will have to send more troops to the Flowery kingdom. It's just possible that the Nipponese, one of these days, will be able to wear head-coverings of somewhat reduced dimensions.

The Homeopathic Congress of States, assembled in annual convention in Chicago, was told that the past eighteen months had been the healthiest period of that length in the United States during the last half-century. It is a significant fact that a lot of us have cut down considerably in our eating during the last year and a half.

A Notable Stage Career Ended.

The stage career of Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, who died at Hollis, Long Island, Monday, covered a period of sixty-three years. She made her first appearance before the footlights when but three years of age and her last, in her sixty-sixth year, last fall in Chicago, when "Against the Wind," in which she was appearing closed owing to her illness.

Unlike many—the most, in fact—of those to whom the stage brought fame, Mrs. Fiske's range of parts was a notable one. Whether she was cast in tragedy, in melodrama or in comedy, all the parts which came to her were grist, and she played all of them superbly. She had to do so to attain the notable position she held as an actress at the time she did, for she was a recognized star in the stage era in which histrionic heights unknown before or since were attained; at a time when superb artists such as Tommaso Salvini and Edwin Booth had educated the play-going public to the possibilities of stage portrayal.

True, she had not reached the height of her fame when they were at the very zenith of their powers, but playgoers had been so enlightened by them and other finished artists of their time that they were not content with the mediocre and commonplace in stage offerings.

Thus it is that those of us who saw Mrs. Fiske at her best, as we of Marion fortunately were permitted to see her on a number of occasions, can have a better conception of what the stage once was and the deterioration it has suffered since that time.

Four or five decades ago it took far more than a generous display of nudity, one or two stolen melodies, a theme song, a bedroom scene, coarse jests and suggestive dialogue and postures to make a stage offering a success, and the quality of the acting has fallen in step with that of the vehicles.

To have attained stage distinction as Minnie Maddern did required ability, and to have attained it at the time she did makes manifest that her artistry was of high order. The commonplace did not flourish at the time she was at her best.

The New Move To Loosen Credit.

The Hoover administration's extensive program to break the grip of the business recession by loosening credit and wean the public from hoarding moves forward another long step with assured passage of the Glass-Steagall bill. Senator Glass, who devised the bill, and Representative Steagall, who is sponsoring it, are Democrats. It is a needed tribute to statesmanship that such cooperation is possible in a presidential year.

Two amendments to the federal reserve act will be made. The first is one permitting federal reserve banks to make loans to member banks, secured by collateral which is not eligible under present restrictions. Such loans, bearing interest at one per cent. above the prevailing rediscount rate in the district, must be approved by the federal reserve board in Washington.

The second amendment adds government bonds to collateral deposited by federal reserve banks in the federal treasury to obtain federal reserve notes. Under present restrictions such notes must be covered by at least forty per cent. gold and short-term commercial paper. Scarcity of the latter has increased gold coverage up to as high as eighty per cent. in some districts.

The amendments should not be viewed as proposals for inflation. Their purpose is to make changes in the federal reserve system which will permit it to function as normally as possible in abnormal times, like equipping an automobile with chains to enable it to get over a stretch of muddy road. Neither should they be viewed as purely emergency proposals to be discarded after the emergency. It is likely that, if adopted, they will be reduced permanently, probably with certain definite restrictions on their use. When the stretch of muddy road has been covered the motorist does not throw away the chains that helped him.

Informed opinion denies that the amendments will mean more money, in the sense that the treasury will utilize released gold as reserve against additional currency issues. If "inflation" be changed to "thawing," a word more in keeping with the process of correcting a condition of frozen assets, it can be said properly that $250,000,000 in federal reserve notes involuntarily hoarded by federal reserve banks will be "thawed out" and distributed among member banks. If passage of the Glass-Steagall bill actually places this amount of money in circulation, it will mean, in credit theory, an expansion of two and one-half billion dollars. It is accepted theory that one dollar of currency is equivalent to $10 of credit. A greater result would be restoration of confidence to the extent of bringing millions of privately-hoarded dollars into circulation again.

In ordinary times the federal reserve banking act accomplishes its purposes. Unfortunately, it has not been able to accomplish those purposes in times like the present. Elasticity not inherent in the act, therefore, has been provided in the Glass-Steagall bill which, though it may have its faults, represents the best opinion of the people's representatives in congress. Together with other government measures, past and future, it must be depended on to bring the United States through the present hard times.

There shouldn't be any surprise over the fact that a Columbia university co-ed has written a paper condemning the present marital system and demanding a new form of union. Almost anything may be expected to come out from Columbia.

To Please the Public.

Coaches, players and football fans will be angered, puzzled, amused and disheartened by the new modifications of the playing code. The general public, however, will be convinced that an earnest attempt to make football a safer game has been made by the rules committee. That is what the committee wanted to accomplish.

Of the six modifications, the most disturbing to those who understand the game probably will be that one forbidding use of the flying block or tackle, eliminating two of the most spectacular movements to be seen on the gridiron. Shoulder blocking and body blocking are recognized as more dependable than the flying block, in which the blocker leaves his feet to throw his body into an opponent's path, but the latter method had its uses. Flying tackles, though rare, always compelled admiration when they were well executed.

Elimination of the flying wedge after the kick-off, by requiring that five players of the receiving team remain on their forty-five-yard line until the ball is kicked, is in direct response to the outburst of indignation that followed a fatal accident in an important game last fall. It was not proved that the player, a West Point cadet, was injured because of the flying wedge, but the rules committee is playing on the safe side. Public opinion is more important than the game which needs it.

Other modifications, particularly one making the ball dead when any part of the ball carrier's body, excepting his hands or feet, touches the ground, are more in the interests of the game. Unsportsmanlike use of the defensive privilege of using the hands now is forbidden by a rule, as is also the wearing of improper equipment. All in all, football has not been hurt much or helped much. Certain changes have been made in the interest of safety. They will prove acceptable, even to those who have been convinced by experience and observation that football never can be made safe by rules.

The Hon. Newton D. Baker has expressed himself as convinced that the city of Cleveland will have a "clean, vigorous and efficient administration" under Ray T. Miller as mayor. Isn't this, Newton, giving the old government a sort of a stiff poke in the eye?

Canada is to investigate United States control of the radio waves, Canada having been allotted but six of the ninety-six North American waves. To be perfectly honest about the thing, it doesn't look wholly like a square deal especially so in view of the fact that a big proportion of our allotment of the waves is being shamefully misused.

"WE ARE THE DEAD."

Editorial Opinion.

A FEDERAL KIDNAPING LAW.

The increase of sentiment for a law which will make "interstate" kidnaping a federal offense punishable by death is a logical development growing out of an exceedingly bad situation which the states apparently are powerless to handle adequately.

Traditionally, and as a matter of general practice, the punishment for ordinary crime perpetrated outside federal territory and not classified as an offense against the federal government is left to the states. An exception is the Mann act for the suppression of white slavery, a measure which has received more criticism than it would have incurred had it been drawn more discriminatingly, and in some cases applied more reasonably.

It is true, too, that the states ought to be jealous of any tendency on the part of Washington to encroach unnecessarily on their police powers or upon their authority to administer justice exclusively within the bounds of their natural jurisdictions. Federalization of criminal law enforcement could easily become a definitely vicious thing. But it likewise is necessary that states recognize the appearance of certain limitations on the potency of local agencies to control modern crime independently of outside aid which have developed as a result of new conditions of life and civilization.

Kidnaping in its present "commercialized" form is peculiarly an evil which in this age of rapid, long distance travel that disregards political divisions and boundaries as though they were non-existent has gone beyond the control of the states of the union acting individually, or with such voluntary co-operation as they may develop among themselves.

Added to this is the fact that in a rather peculiar way kidnaping is a "continuing" crime. The perpetrator commits an offense when he abducts a victim. He also commits an offense in afterward holding his victim prisoner. Where the kidnaped person is taken from one state to another the felony has the same interstate aspects that white slavery coming within the scope of the Mann act possesses; and it is only logical to treat the two crimes similarly. But it should be possible to frame a kidnaping statute that will not be susceptible of the misuse to which the Mann act has been put.—Detroit Free Press.

GERMANY'S DISARMAMENT PLEA.

Chancellor Bruening, speaking over an international radio network yesterday, contributed a brief chapter to the story of disarmament which is being told at Geneva. His statement is to the point that Germany will not subscribe to any percentage or proportional reduction of armament based upon present conditions; that Germany demands that if disarmament is effected it be by a reduction of the arms of other nations to the German basis, established by the treaty of Versailles. In short, Germany asks that the provisions of that treaty be radically amended in respect to the military equipment of Germany's former enemies in proportion to those of Germany.

This radio address, though apparently sent out to reach the ears of listeners in other lands, was probably intended primarily for home attention. Herr Bruening is facing a political test in the elections that are soon to take place in Germany. His opponents are demanding the revision of the Versailles treaty. The statement, therefore, becomes a campaign document of value at home.

There is little chance of any agreement at Geneva upon a disarmament program that will be adopted by the nations attending that conference. There is absolutely no chance whatever of agreement upon such a program as that which Bruening demands in the name of Germany. The treaty of Versailles will not be modified at a disarmament conference. If it is ever amended it will come from a meeting of powers called to consider international economic conditions.—Washington Star, February 15

Lead Poisoning from Carelessness.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In this age of machinery and advancement in medicine, lead poisoning is not so common as formerly. However, "plumbism," or lead poisoning, is still the most serious of all occupational diseases.

In most cases the poisoning is due to neglect and carelessness, and it is usually a slow but progressive condition. The lead is gradually stored in the organs and tissues of the body. As a result of this accumulation, in course of time the body is poisoned.

The disease is frequently found in workers who are careless in the handling of lead. They inhale the dust or fumes of the lead. This causes damage to the lungs, kidneys, liver and intestines.

Individuals who are not lead workers may become afflicted with this disease. There are many chances for accidental poisoning. It may be caused by drinking water, foods or beverages that have been contaminated by lead. This contamination may be produced by lead pipes, lead utensils or chemical compounds.

It may occur from lead in paint. Babies may poison themselves by eating the lead paint from their cribs. Face powders, hair dyes and cosmetics containing an excess of lead used to be a common cause of such poisoning.

The symptoms of lead poisoning are colic, constipation, palsy, anemia, a blue line in the gums, "rheumatic" pains and nervous complications. A characteristic sign in lead poisoning is the so-called wrist drop. This is caused by the paralysis of the muscles in the forearm, with a dropping of or inability to hold up the wrists. The pains in the joints are often mistaken for rheumatism. The sufferer is pale and presents the usual signs of anemia.

Many preventive measures are now taken to guard against this disease. Fortunately we have food and drug laws which prohibit the manufacture and sale of substances containing lead. A careful analysis of the water supply protects against lead poisoning. Lead water pipes are no longer used in building construction.

I am happy to say that great progress has been made also in the protection of the industrial worker. Hoods, ventilating fans, masks, glasses and gloves now protect the lead worker from this serious disease. Personal hygiene and cleanliness are imperative in its prevention.

If you are engaged in any work which involves the handling of lead, always wash your hands after work and before eating. Never eat at your work. Change your working clothes as soon as you are through with your work. Avoid alcoholic beverages and do not smoke while working.

Eat good, nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Never go to work without breakfast. When the stomach is empty the body becomes more susceptible to the poisonous effects of lead. Consult with your physician at the first sign of poor health.

New Home of Lavals.

BY RALPH HEINZEN

Paris, Feb. 18—U.P.—Pierre Laval, his almost invisible wife and vivacious Jose may have to move again, Laval and his ministry having resigned.

They had quit the rather modern palace of the ministry of the interior and by virtue of the premier's change to minister of foreign affairs had gone to the luxurious and spacious palace of the Quai d'Orsay under whose roof sleep all the kings and queens who come here on state visits.

No Midas of France lives in such luxury as that which has surrounded the Auvergne butcher boy and his family. The state collections of antique furniture, most of it from the palaces of the Bourbons and Napoleon, was stripped to furnish the palace of the foreign ministry with the most exquisite taste that French period furniture will allow.

The Laval family took up the quarters, vacated by M. Aristide Briand after six years of occupancy, but moving day for them had no worries. Their personal belongings and clothing filled but a single van, for the republic provides them not only with their furniture, but all the plate, linen and everything they need, even down to a wine cellar, which is better stocked with rare vintages than most libraries are with rare books.

The private apartments of the minister occupy the entire second floor and both wings of the palace which Lacornee built in 1853. It is famous for its great salons, high ceilings and monumental fireplaces and a typical salon is the great clock-room, now famed because it was the setting of the signing of the Kellogg-Briand pact to condemn war and two sessions of the League of Nations council. The first settled the Greek-Bulgar border dispute, but the second failed to end the Japanese occupation of Manchuria.

There are seven dining-rooms, including a state room which can seat 100 with ease. There are sleeping rooms which are kept aired, but locked until another king arrives on business. But there is a whole wing which provides plenty of room for the three Lavals and a courtyard with a private garage for the little car that the premier gave his daughter upon her return from America.

Jose occupies a suite of bedroom, dressing-room and little salon, which looks out upon the great wooded gardens which are such a surprise to find in the heart of Paris. Her ceilings are high and the old walls are tinted and bear a patine which adds to their beauty.

She has in her bedroom a dressing table which may have come out of the bedroom of a past queen. It is a beautiful work from the hands of a master with its inlaid designs of lemon wood. The bed is in carved wood with flowered silk upholstering. Old carpets from the once royal manufactory of France are in profusion.

The Laval family, always prudent, also has kept its family home at the edge of the city in Villa Said, the same group of detached houses which was also the home of the late Anatole France. When political destiny no longer smiles on the Lavals, their home in the Villa Said will provide a comfortable contrast with the royal luxury into which they moved.

Ohio's Preacher Senator.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

Stanley Griswold, the first person to be appointed United States senator for Ohio, began life as a minister of the gospel, and served but nine months in the senate. Born on a farm near Torrington, Connecticut, his father was able to give him the benefit of an education at Yale, from where he graduated in 1786. For a year he was the principal of a high school, and then began the study of theology. He was installed as pastor of a Unitarian church at New Milford where he became popular because of his eloquence and his social qualities, but because of his open admiration of Thomas Jefferson, then looked upon as an atheist, he was expelled from the ministerial association. His own church stood by him, however, and he continued to preach in that pulpit until 1802, when he resigned.

The year before he had preached a sermon at a Democratic jubilee, which further brought criticism upon him. In 1804, he quit the ministry and became the editor of a Democratic paper at Walpole, New Hampshire. President Jefferson appointed him secretary of the territorial government of Michigan, but he resigned after a year's service after a quarrel with General William Hull, and came to Ohio.

He was evidently a friend of Governor Samuel Huntington—their friendship dating back to college days. After his brief services as senator from Ohio, he was appointed United States judge for the Northwest territory, in which office he continued to serve until his death, which occurred at Shawneetown, Illinois, in 1815, when he was but fifty-two years old

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, Feb. 18—George M. Cohan is becoming a less familiar figure in the passing Rialto parade. When I came to town he was seen daily among luncheon crowds at the Astor's "Hunting" room or leaning on his bamboo cane in animated discussion on a Times Square corner.

Today he is seen more often strolling in the pebbled path circling the Central Park reservoir and within easy distance of the Savoy Plaza where he lives. While a member of both the Lambs and Friars, his sentimental attachment seems more pronounced for the Friars.

Perhaps because he is the Friars' abbot. Too there may be twinges in the old wound inflicted when he broke with the Lambs during the actors' strike. Yet wherever Cohan may wander, he suggests the corona of the stage's eclipse, symbolizing the fire and folly of the theater's "Golden Age."

Two of his closest companions—pals to Cohan—are Broadwayites. One is Steve Reardon, former policeman, big, bluff, booming. On these increasingly rare occasions when Cohan decides to see the town by gaslight, his escort is the jovial and faithful Reardon.

His other pal is Hap Ward, of the old burlesque duo of Ward and Vokes. Reardon and Ward, along with the late bright-vested Eddie Dunn, Cohan's business manager, are said to be the only persons who had his entire confidence. Cohan, socially, has always been much of a lone wolf.

He once said: "I'm Mick enough to cling to a few superstitions." One of these is to wear a faded old green silk dressing gown on every opening night. Likely the most intimate of professional cronies is William Collier, now transplanted to Hollywood, although they usually indulge a see-saw of sarcasm.

Cohan's open-pursed generosity to old-timers in discard is a fruity legend of dressing-rooms. His "private pay roll" is reputedly the biggest along the Rialto. Yet he pooh-poohs it. "I'm a hard-boiled mug," he clips out of the side of his mouth. But Broadway winks!

Only eighty-six horse-drawn public rigs remain in the headlong cascade of midtown vehicular traffic. Greying coachers with glazed cockaded hats are seen so seldom that to hire them for a spin in the park takes on the freshness of a lark. About a dozen old-fashioned families cling to the "growlers" for afternoon rides.

In today's mail came a yellowed copy of an ad, reminiscent of carriage factories of Brewster and Flandeau heralding: "Elegant Carriages of the Best Class—Suspension Victorias, Cabriolets, Coupe, T. A strip of the Harlem bad lands is known as "Blood Fields." Here on festive occasions the razor flourishes. The bon ton section remains that elevated residential section of Edgecombe avenue called "Sugar Hill." I always thought the most picturesquely named negro section—in Cincinnati, I believe—was "Banjo Flats."

Lou Holz tells of the Scot who carelessly crashed into a car driven by a Hebrew. The latter was hurled to the road, moaning, with both legs broken, a bleeding head and a wrecked car. The Scotsman rushed to him, pulled out a flask and made him take a long swig, then another and told him to remain quiet while he went for a doctor. Just then a policeman came up. He asked the trouble and who was responsible. "I got nothing to say," said the Scotsman, and pointing to the Hebrew continued: "All I ask is for you to smell his breath."

Out of a thick morning fog on Fifth avenue a blurry limousine in front of Cartier's developed a melting scene that creamed apart like successive scrims in a stage transformation. What first appeared to be the outline of a man stepped from the car. But crossing the sidewalk into the glare of store lights proved to be an actress—Fifi D'Orsay, if eyes did not trick me—in a dark red moire suit cut like a man's tuxedo and sporting a white moire vest and a jade tipped swagger stick.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Feb. 18—By his own admission Carter Glass, Virginia's fiery and sharp-tongued senator, within less than a week broke two of his most cherished records covering a period of thirty years in congress.

First, he has made a partisan speech.

Second, he has assailed the head of a department of government.

But be it said to his credit when he did break these records he did it with a smash that long will be remembered by those who witnessed their fall.

Secretary Hyde of the department of agriculture was the cause. The secretary's recent public statement the Democrats were responsible for the country's present economic ills to the extent that they made some $2,000,000,000 in foreign loans after the war without what he termed legal right to do so caused the little Virginia senator to see red.

And when "Glass of Virginia, suh," sees red something is bound to happen.

It never has failed. Even when he was a small boy playing baseball, he says that what time he was not covering third base he had a bat in his hand waiting for the opportunity to kill the umpire.

In this instance Glass felt that Secretary Hyde had both insulted his party and himself. For he was secretary of the treasury during the time these loans were being made.

Ordinarily Senator Glass is a pleasant sort of person. A favorite pastime when congress is not in session is to return to the Piedmont section of Virginia, go out to the pasture where he keeps his fine herd of Jersey cows and sit there and watch them graze.

Late in the afternoon he calls the sports editor of his paper in Lynchburg to see whether the Washington baseball team won or lost the game that day.

But when riled on the floor of the senate he can be just about as aggressive as one can imagine.

And this Hyde incident riled him a-plenty.

On two occasions he tore into the secretary with an attack, the like of which the senate hasn't seen in a long while. He stormed as he spoke, grew serious as he endeavored to present what he termed the plain facts, and then wound up with a brand of sarcasm calculated to humble his accuser.

Indirectly he likened the secretary's head to that of a turnip in a story he told. "How many precious hours we waste arguing with turnips," was the last sentence of his story. And "As old Bishop John Early, of Virginia, used to say the senate 'may note the phraseology and mark the application,'" he concluded.

It was Glass going strong—an aroused Glass who in by-gone days might have sought satisfaction in some other manner.

How One Woman Ended Eczema

Severe Case All Over Her Body, But Now She Is Better.

This letter from Charlotte Brandon of Swansea, Mass., is worth reading: "I used Peterson's Ointment and soap for a very severe case of eczema. It was all over my body. I have tried many things to cure it, but not one of them gave me a cure. I saw the ad of Peterson's Ointment in the Fall River Herald and now I am better. Mounties Win Battle; Crazed Trapper Slain

AKLAVIK, Northwest Territory, Feb. 18—In fresh fallen snow of the Rat river country, about a week's hard mush from where the majestic Mackenzie pours into Beaufort sea, the blood of Albert Johnson has written the familiar, inexorable axiom:

"The Canadian mounted police always get their man."

The mad trapper died yesterday with a rifle stock tucked against his fur-jacketed shoulder and with a blue-cold finger upon the trigger which had sent death to one mountie and dangerous wounds to another.

As he fell in snow fresh laid by a blizzard, he sent two bullets whining toward his attackers dropping Staff Sergeant E. F. Hersey.

Above him droned a plane. In it were bombs which Pilot W. R. May was ready to drop if the ground force failed. When he saw Johnson dead, he slipped to a landing on the snow, picked up the wounded staff sergeant, and flew him here. Hersey lies today critically wounded, a bullet through the knee and another in the chest.

During all the eight weeks Johnson had laughed at the law of the northland. First the mounties went boldly to his hermit cabin. Indians had complained that some one had been robbing their traps.

But yesterday the trail of the mad trapper, plain as print in fresh fallen snow, zig-zagged. It meant he was through, his strength exhausted.

Hersey, forging ahead of the posse, came upon him first. Johnson was weak; but there still was strength to lift a gun, still power to press a trigger, still that uncanny aim that could send a bullet to a target a half a mile.

Hersey fumbled to get his own weapon from the sled to which it was strapped. Two bullets tore into his body.

The full force of policemen, Indians and trappers came forward, their guns speaking in unison. A single volley dropped the mad trapper of Rat river in the snow.

NEW REFINEMENTS NOTED IN 1932 CARS

Low Priced Autos Compete with Expensive in Interior Appointments.

The almost universal conclusion reached by the hundreds of automobile-minded Marionites who are attending the displays being staged by local automobile dealers this week, is that each manufacturer in producing his 1932 models has tried to outdo the other in improvements and luxury of interiors.

Improvements and interior finishings that were not even available in high priced cars last year, are now a part of the lower priced models. While the interior finish of the higher priced cars is still more luxurious, the lower priced cars are running them a close second.

Seats are wider. More room is provided in the rear of sedans and coaches and instrument panels and other metal trimming are more attractive.

In addition to these improvements, the dealers point to free wheeling which is almost universal in the 1932 cars. New types of gears are noiseless and easy to shift. Snubber control makes it possible to drive in comfort over any kind of road with any kind of a load.

"Easy to ride in, easy to drive, easy to look at and easy to pay for," are the talking points of the salesmen this year. The show will continue the rest of the week.

HOOVER AID PLEASED WITH OHIO SITUATION

"Harmony Prevails," Campaign Manager Says; Warner at Conference.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18—Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, who is managing President Hoover's pre-primary campaign, continued his conferences with Ohio Republican leaders today with a view to lining up delegates to the national convention pledged to support the President for renomination.

The conferences revealed "a fine spirit of harmony prevailing in the party, and a unanimity of support for President Hoover," Brown said.

Participating were Sherman Eagle of Gallipolis, Fred W. Warner of Marion, Edward D. Schorr of Cincinnati, state chairman; State Senator Robert Taft, Lincoln McCurdy and Fred Schneller, all of Cincinnati.

Significance was attached to the conference with Warner and Eagle in view of their recent efforts to induce Senator Hiram Johnson of California to enter the presidential race in opposition to Hoover. Neither commented on the results of the meeting.

both have been exempted from taxation.

A taxpayer can make certain whether he should list personal property by glancing over one of the six-page blanks on which personal property is listed this year, the auditor pointed out. The list calls for many forms of tangible and intangible personal property.

Must Have List

Marion attorneys have been familiarized with the new listing blanks to assist taxpayers, and assistance also will be given by the auditor and his assistants. Auditor Thomas today declared that it would be virtually impossible for him or his deputies to help a taxpayer make his listing unless the taxpayers brought to the office a complete list of all personal property as of last Jan. 1.

Five persons will be at work in the auditor's office taking listings of property throughout the listing and collection period. The listings will be recorded in the auditor's office, a receipt will be made out for the first half of the tax due on the personal property this year, and the taxpayer will take the money to the county treasurer immediately. Unless the first half of the personalty tax is paid within 10 days, a 50 per cent penalty is added.

Persons failing to list their personal property are subject to a penalty of 50 per cent.

The best tax, wisest and fairest perhaps, would be a tax on all sales, so small as not to be felt by any one, but highly productive. This would come after the usual taxes on big individual and corporation incomes. Those incomes can not be saddled with the whole load, without danger of making the depression infinitely worse.

THIN without starving

The Modern Way

Do you know that multitudes of people, nowadays, lose excess fat without starving? Look about you—note how slenderness prevails. Everywhere you see the amazing results of this new way of treating obesity.

Modern science has discovered that a great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. That gland secretion helps turn food to energy. When it is lacking, fat piles up and vim goes down.

Doctors, the world over, now feed that lacking factor to the over-fat. And the method has largely changed the world.

Marmola prescription tablets present this method in right form, at small cost. A famous medical laboratory prepares them for that purpose. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. The slender figures which surround you now are due largely to the factors in Marmola. Modern doctors know that.

No secrets about Marmola. A book in each box gives the formula—tells you exactly why the weight drops and vim comes up.

Go try this method. All other ways are bound to fail if this gland cause is not corrected. Ask your slender friends who have used Marmola. Go do what they did—now.

rope—Goody and Charlie Rand were married. And many's the ship that has been launched with far less excitement and cost than the wedding of the elder daughter of John Howard Ross.

Hope steeled herself, trying not to feel scalded and poisoned at the sight of Goody's joy. Trying to throw herself into the preparations, and running herself ragged in her effort to show Goody that she wasn't envious, and that she did wish Goody all the happiness she had missed for herself. Endless were Hope's activities until at last Mama Ross, touched and comforted, turned the bulk of the details into Hope's surprisingly capable hands. The more Hope worked and planned for Goody's wedding, the closer she felt to her sister, for the first time in her life. Yet each day, the sadder and more lonely she felt for herself, until she verged on self-pity that required newer and greater devilties to forestall what she termed "sloppy sentimentality."

But the strain was great. And nobody was more relieved than Hope—not even the bride herself—when at last the wedding was accomplished. Church and ivory satin, flowing lace veil that swept into a train, organ music that made your heart bulge against your ribs, choral voices and misty eyes, sonorous words spoken by the minister and listened to by a soupy-eyed churchful, reporters and cameramen, Charlie damp and whitely nonchalant, Goody seraphic and transformed by her costume into a symbol of all womanly bliss . . .

While Hope stood behind her, in peach chiffon, a huge be-flowered picture hat on her golden head, her eyes fixed on the pearls that rode up and down, up and down, on Goody's chest as she breathed ....Hope, with a sweet smile and tender eyes, never once showing the white feather, never once giving sign of her innermost thoughts.

"I should have been standing there," pounded her heart, "dressed like that, with Dickey by my side. And then he wouldn't have had to leave me, because I wouldn't have been disinherited at all. And I wouldn't care if he loved me just for my money as long as he loved me....Only what's the use of a man like that? I'm better off without him. God knows if I can't find a man to be a man, I'll go to my grave an old maid. If that organ doesn't quit, I'll go crazy....Gee, now we'll have a big reception. And Goody'll get dressed and sail tonight on the big boat, and have a swell honeymoon, and she's got enough presents to keep her for life.

"Charlie is a nice boy, but heaven forbid I'd ever fall for anybody like him. If I could find somebody just like Dickey, only a real red-blooded man like he seemed to be—a man who'd put up a fight for you and face the music ...Oh, well, they don't make men like that, I suppose ...Maybe I'll go out and get a job as a nice little shop-girl or in an office somewhere and not give my name. And see what kind of men care for a girl just for herself and not for what she's got. . . .

"Look at Goody! She'll burst with happiness. Look at Mother; she's so proud of Goody, and she was so ashamed of me! Who cares who's ashamed of me! Was it my fault I picked a bum to love? I guess I'm only attracted to bums. If only Dickey would give me a tumble again, I'd be smack at his feet—like fun I would! I'll go up to that Prom, and maybe I won't give him a razzle-dazzle he won't forget in one big hurry! I'll go up there and show him what they mean by this here business of a woman scorned. . . .

But Hope, up in Harmouth, hadn't a chance to give Dickey Dale a razzle-dazzle. Not a chance! For all that she had planned so carefully, getting Judy to lie for her; for all that she had hardly been able to sit still beside Betty Preston on the long ride up in the train; for all that she dressed for the big dance with a nervousness she hadn't known since the first time she had fibbed to her mother about smoking, for all that her gown and her entire outfit was the most stunning, the most expensive, and the most breathlessly selected in over a year, Hope hadn't a chance!

Twosome Hubbard and Tuck Hall—a big, strapping moron, with a wart on his chin, rubbery lips, and a grudge against the world—had met Hope and Betty at the station and conducted them to the fraternity house where they were both inmates. Betty, assigned with a girl in the chorus to Twosome's room, and Hope, bunked with a Canadian beauty in Tuck's, immediately proceeded to coax and bribe their room-mates to swap, so that Betty and Hope might be together in Tuck's room.

Not a word was spoken about Dickey Dale then or later, as they dropped over to a basketball game, had dinner at a nearby restaurant, and went back to their room to dress, with admonitions from the boys to be ready in three hours at least.

It was while they were dressing that Betty poured out her heart. She k new Hope had seen quite obviously that her beloved Twosome was ill—pale, nervous and jumpy. He was, Betty explained a bit tearfully, so nervous that he was almost out of his mind. The truth was that Twosome was the bootlegger of Harmouth. The boy had to work his way through college, and inasmuch as his only asset was a speedy foreign car, plus the fact that Harmouth was near the Canadian border, Twosome made a run at least once a month.

But now he was terrified; not only because he had been chased more than once in the last winter; but also because the boys talked—boasted of Twosome's brave adventures when he raced up to Canada and back again with no headlights. Betty admitted to Hope — who wasn't listening—how brave she thought her Twosome was, but she so dreadfully wanted him to quit. Twosome thought only of the disgrace and sorrow on his widowed mother if he were caught, and the stretch he might have to do; but Betty thought of the physical dangers to her darling—the shots from the chasing car, the headlong speed on the dark roads . . . Her one aim was to make Twosome quit before he was a nervous wreck who jumped at the sound of his own name.

Hope sighed as the tragedy trickled through her preoccupied mind, and turned to comfort Betty, and offer impulsively, whatever money Twosome needed to finish his education. He could pay her back any time . . . And then she snapped irritably at Betty's grateful tears, smothering the wish that someone would comfort her in her own heartache.

But the shock came during the second dance at the big ball. When Twosome Hubbard, guiding Hope carefully through the crowded floor, opined that hers must have been a painful and thunderous marriage.

"Why?" Hope frowned whimsically up into his face.

"Well, Dale heard yesterday afternoon that you were coming and he beat it like a shot!"

"Beat it?"

"Back to town. He's gone down to New York to see his father."

"But"—Hope managed to seem amused, and in spite of the dizzy chill that had suddenly struck her—"what about the girl—the girl he was having up to the Prom?"

"How do I know?" grinned Twosome. "Maybe there wasn't any such critter. Dale's been sour as five-day milk all this year. I found out a lot about him. He hasn't had a girl or gone to a hop since last Yom Kippur."

"Oh—really?"

To Be Continued.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Upon Awakening Madge Learns That the Chinese Have Been Turned Over to the Authorities.

THE sun was shining when I awoke, and Lillian was gone. I lay still for several seconds, wondering what was depressing me, then with a start of recollection, I jumped out of bed and ran to the window overlooking the bungalow.

There was no curl of smoke from the chimney now, such as had terrified me the night before. Indeed there was no sign of life about the building at all. Jim, instead of standing guard as he had done during the hours of the terrifying evening, was now calmly milking a cow standing in the grass of the orchard.

I bathed and dressed rapidly, and went out into the corridor, knocking lightly at Lillian's door; but there was no response—she either had gone back to her bed and was too deep in slumber to hear my summons, or else she already was downstairs. I pinned my faith to the second hypothesis and went downstairs to find Lillian the sole occupant of the breakfast table.

"Hello, there!" She drew back a chair next hers. "I'll tell Katie to bring your things next me here, for I have much speech with thee."

"Where are all the others?" I asked.

The Menace Is Gone

"Pounding their respective ears," she said, grinning. "Remember, the youngsters didn't get to bed until just before that stunt with the wounded man in the library—I shooed them all upstairs while you were preparing the sick man for Lee Chow's coming, and they'll not be stirring for some hours yet—it's not quite seven yet anyway, you incorrigible early riser."

"I haven't looked at my watch," I confessed. "Where are the men?"

"Ours, or the prisoners?"

"Everybody."

"I trust ours are all asleep," she said with a little smile. "At least they ought to be. All of them except your faithful Jim, who stood all night, a couple of hours here, and then a long watch-and-ward beat, turning those lads over to the immigration authorities in the city. They returned only an hour ago, and Hugh and Lee Chow stayed on the bungalow, while Jim and I fairly ran for [illegible] upstairs. You [illegible] receive them [illegible] as brief as [illegible] off again, [illegible] as nearly [illegible] nese menace is definitely and completely over, this poor lad in the library can be sent to a hospital, and we can resume a peaceful existence.

"You forget," I said, "those men in the blue sedan who were so determined to obtain Marion's lock box."

"I said the Chinese menace," she repeated. "Those lads had nothing to do with the Chinese, you may be sure. And if you'll cast your memory back, those blue sedan lads sent word that as long as the box remained in the bank safety deposit box, they would not molest us. No, I think we all can sleep soundly for awhile."

"Until Marion is of age, at least," I said. "Of course, she'll want to open the box, then. Or — if she marries."

Why I added that sentence, so fraught with dynamite, I do not know. Something outside of myself seemed to impel me to it. But I could have bitten my tongue through when I saw Lillian's startled face.

"If she marries," she repeated slowly. "Yes, that was her grandmother's stipulation. It was not to be opened—the packages in the secret drawer, I mean—until Marion was of age or on her wedding day—Madge!"—she caught at my arm excitedly—"I see it all now—don't you that's why Charles Owen is trying so hard to win her—he knows of something in that box that he wants, and that he knows he can get only by marriage. And — Madge—" she was speaking slowly, deadly now, as if "feeling her way through a maze—"if he knows, it's because Sam Brixton told him. They're in a plot together to rob my baby—don't you see?"

"I often have thought so," I said, "especially since you told me about Mr. Brixton and Marion's father being together in China during the Boxer troubles. But, of course, we cannot be sure."

"What shall I do?" she said tensely. "I feel as if I must snatch Marion up and run with her to the ends of the earth. I feel as though I could not have her breathing the same air with Ronald and Carolyn another minute. And here she is scheduled to go back to Whitney Hall with Carolyn!"

"Your perspective is woefully askew just now," I told her. "In the first place, Carolyn and Ronald haven't a drop of Brixton blood, as you very well know. And their mother is was your best friend."

"You'd better say 'was,'" she said with such prompt affection that my heart was suddenly warm. "She's only second, no third place now. You first, then Katrina, then Helena—that's my scale."

"Thank you, that's very flattering," I told her. "But to return to our little sheep. I believe going back to Whitney Hall is the very best possible step. All you have to do is to drop a hint in the ear of that wise head mistress of Whitney to the effect that Mr. Owen is not particularly acceptable to you, and he can pound his knuckles off upon the doors of Whitney Hall, but he'll not see Marion."

Harding Hopes Rise as Ling, Vestal Return to Lineup

JINX CONTINUES TO KEEP STARK OUT OF RED-BLACK COMBINE

Presidents Crippled, but Confident of Taking Friday Game from Galion.

A slight ray of hope for a Harding victory over Galion filtered through the basketball atmosphere of Marion yesterday as Jack Ling and Fred Vestal both appeared on the Steam Shovel court for a workout with the Presidents. The return of these two boys gives rise to the expectation that Harding will be able to place at least a fair share of its full strength on the floor against the invading Orangemen Friday night. Ling and Vestal have both been out of uniform, one with an injury and the other because of illness. Neither is certain to be in the lineup Friday night but their presence yesterday bolstered hopes they will be able to play

Bill Stark, Ling's understudy at the center position was not in uniform yesterday and may not be ready for the game Friday.

With the exception of the above three boys, all of the Harding squad is in shape for what is likely to be a hard battle against Galion. Coaches Bohyer and Williams put the Presidents through a scrimmage session yesterday and probably give them a fairly stiff workout today in a last final effort to whip them into shape for a good showing against the McClintock-coached combine.

If Ling is ready to go, he will undoubtedly be started at the center post. If not, the starter at the pivot position is doubtful. Bill Stark may get the call if he is able but if he is not, John Pickerel appears the next best bet. Pickerel has been playing guard but can be moved into the center position in an emergency.

Despite the fact the sickness and injury jinx has been working overtime on the Harding squad, an air of confidence is noted in the camp of the Red and Black. Those members of the squad who have not been affected by the jinx are diligently working in an effort to be at peak form for the attempt to turn in the fourth N. C. O. victory.

The Friday game will be the next the last on the home court for Harding. Mansfield will come here next Tuesday night and the Presidents will conclude the league schedule at Shelby on Friday.

WALDO TEAMS TAKE DOUBLE CAGE BILL

In a preliminary game the Waldo Independents defeated the Martel Independents 26-25 in a hard battle. Selores Timson of the Martel team and Doris Shults of Waldo were high scorers with 13 points each.

VENZKE BEATS FIELD OF CRACK SPRINTERS

Recently Risen Star Steps Mile in 4:10 in New York Meet.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Gene Venzke, a boy who always wanted to be a runner-up but never thought he'd be good enough, has become the outstanding member of a quartet of track and field stars who have risen from obscurity to become America's leading Olympic hopes.

The other three are George Spitz, New York university's remarkable high jumper; Leo Sexton, shot put ace of the New York Athletic club; and Emmett Toppino, sprinter from Loyola university of New Orleans.

Venzke leaped into the spotlight about 10 days ago when he smashed the indoor mile record with a 4:11 1-5 performance. He soared to even greater heights last night when he ran a 4:10 mile, the second fastest ever recorded, in winning the Baxter mile at the New York A. C. games. He not only smashed his own indoor record, but also beat the listed outdoor world mark of 4:10 2-5, held by Paavo Nurmi, leaving untouched only Jules Ladoumegue's unofficial world record of 4:09 1-5.

Accepts Challenge.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 18—Augie Kleckhefer of Chicago, who captured the world's three cushion billiards championship for the tenth time last night, has accepted the challenges of four of his greatest rivals for a special tournament. The challengers are Willie Hoppe, Welker Cochran, Arthur Thurnblad and Jay Bozeman.

DEMPSEY COMEBACK ABILITY TO RECEIVE REAL TEST TONIGHT

Former Heavyweight Champion To Meet King Levinsky at Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Feb. 18 Jack Dempsey's comeback trail leads back to a Chicago ring once more tonight but this time his obstacle isn't the cool, calculating Gene Tunney, but the wild swinging ex-fish peddler, King Levinsky.

Almost five years ago, he met Tunney in that memorable "fourteen count" struggle for the world's heavyweight crown.

Tonight, he meets Levinsky in a four-round tussle—a clash that should demonstrate his ability to make another comeback. Daring, cocksure and the owner of a terrific wallop, Levinsky rated as the strongest test on the comeback journey. He has beaten Tommy Loughran and Paulino Uzcudun, gave Primo Carnera a great battle even in defeat, and has worked hard for his test against Dempsey.

Chicago, always a great showground for Dempsey, was excited about the battle and a crowd of approximately 22,000 was expected to watch it. Dempsey already was named the winner at the box office with the privilege of taking 60 per cent of the gross gate and pay Levinsky $7,500 or take 45 per cent and leave Levinsky 15 per cent.

It was agreed that Levinsky's only hope was to land one of his famous haymakers on Dempsey's chin.

Y-INDUS HAS FROLIC AT GALION'S EXPENSE

Marion Team Tramples North Electric Under Lop-Sided 46-10 Score.

On the record books the Shovel Y-Indus clash with the Galion North Electrics last night goes down as a basketball game. However, the game would be much better described as a light workout for the Y-Indus quintet—very light The Marion amateur five romped hither and yon on the Steam Shovel court to chalk up a 46-10 victory over the team that is reputed to be one of Galion's best amateur cage organizations.

The Y-Indus applied a liberal quantity of whitewash to the neighboring city boys for two periods, running up a 22-0 advantage in the first two quarters.

Galion broke the scoring ice just after the second half got under way with a long range toss and managed to add another eight markers to it by the time the game was ended. Marion made little effort to break up attempted shots in the final period but even this did not bring the opponents' score to a very high figure.

Vic Gillis dropped in 18 points for Marion in slightly more than two periods of play Burnison of Galion was about the only bright spot on the Galion team.

PLEASANT BEATEN BY WALDO GIRLS

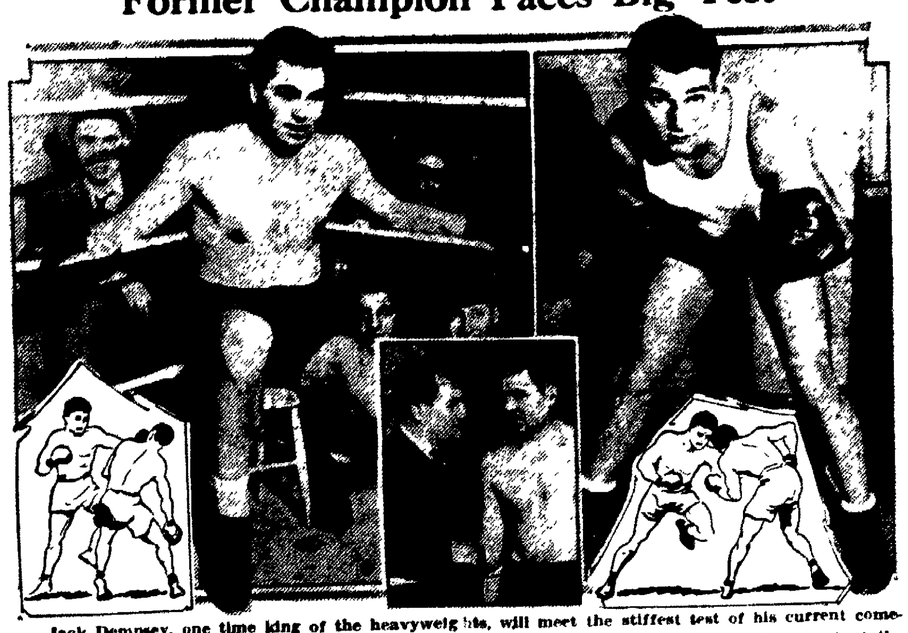
The last postponed game of the Marion county basketball league was played off last night on the Waldo High school court as the Waldo girls turned in a 23-21 victory over the Pleasant lassies in a close and hard-fought battle. The result of last night's contest throws Pleasant and Waldo girls into a tie for second place in the standings of the Eastern half of the circuit with six victories and four losses each.

Waldo led the game practically all of the way, Pleasant going into the lead only once, that in the third period. The score was tied as the whistle sounded to end the game but Doris Shults, in the act of shooting for Waldo, was fouled by a Pleasant guard. She was successful in both of her free throws, these two points providing the margin of victory. Shults was high scorer of the game.

The score by periods:

Waldo	10	2	6	5—23
Pleasant	3	4	10	4—21

Former Champion Faces Big Test



Jack Dempsey, one time king of the heavyweights, will meet the stiffest test of his current comeback campaign tonight when he takes on King Levinsky, ex-fish peddler of Chicago in a bout at the Windy City. Levinsky, possessor of a terrific swing is expected to give the former champ a real battle.

NEW STARTING BARRIER TO BE USED IN SHORT SHIP RACE EVENTS HERE

Harness racing fans in Marion are going to see something new this summer when the trotters and pacers step out in the two Short Ship race meetings here, according to an Associated Press dispatch today from Cleveland

Short ship races next summer will be started by an electrically operated barrier, there will be handicap dash-racing and a racing form publication similiar to that of the running-race sportsmen, will be used.

Stewards of the Short Ship agreed upon the innovations at a meeting in Cleveland yesterday after ratifying a revised 1932 schedule.

The barrier is the design of Stephen G. Phillips of Xenia, O., it is operated by a electric motor, controlled in the dispatcher's stand.

As explained by Phillips, the field of horses turns for the start, 100 feet from the wire Then the barrier tape comes into position and starts moving forward.

At first, the tape travels about five miles an hour, enabling slow starters to get into line. By the time it springs upward for the start, it moves at a 30-mile clip.

There will be nine weeks of racing on the revised Short Ship schedule, as follows

Urbana may 30 to June 4, Marion, June 6 to 11; Mansfield, June 13 to 18, Elyria, June 20 to 25; Cleveland, June 27 to July 9 Toledo July 11 to 20, Marion, July 25 to 30

In the previous schedule, dates were assigned to Wilmington, Zanesville and Lebanon The new schedule provides for the Cleveland and Toledo programs to be held jointly with grand circuit meetings

The stewards heard talks by Joseph M. McGraw, presiding judge, O. C. Belt, Columbus sportsman, Judge A. W. Overmyer of Fremont, and others

Foul Shooters Practicing for Contest Friday

Marion county's foul shooting artists are reported practicing diligently this week in preparation for the contest Frday night which will determine the champion foul shooter of the rural league The charity throw competition will be held in The Star auditorium in connection with county basketball tournament.

All of the twelve schools in the county are expected to place contestants in the contest for possession for a year of the rotating trophy presented by The Star and now in possession of Green Camp High school. Nelson Ritzler won the trophy last year Whether he or some other student will defend the free throw title for Green Camp this season is not certain.

Contestants for the trophy will be given 15 tosses with three preliminary throws allowed which will not be counted. A definite time is being allotted for each school and the representative will be expected to be on the floor at the stated time or risk forfeiting his right to compete The starting time of the basketball games, 7 30 p. m., will not be moved to permit tardy contestants to try for the foul shooting trophy.

The following schedule has been compiled for the foul shooters Coaches of the various basketball teams are asked to see that the school's representative is ready to shoot at the scheduled time.

Martel and Green Camp will start the contest at 7 p m. The rest of the schools will shoot as follows: 7 05, Claridon and Prospect; 7:10, Pleasant and Agosta; 7:15, Waldo and LaRue; 7:20, Caledonia and Meeker and 7 25, Kirkpatrick and Morral.

ENTRY RUSH GREETS ANNOUNCEMENT OF FIGHT TOURNAMENT

Fifteen Amateurs Already Join Ranks of City Title Aspirants.

If the first day's entries are any indication of what is to come the Golden Gloves amateur fight tournament in Marion is destined to draw a field of "beak-busters" that will surprise even the promoters of the affair. Hardly had the edition of The Star which carried the announcement of the coming tourney appeared on the streets that ambitious amateurs began bombarding the promoters' offices for additional information concerning the mitt carnival.

Something like 15 simon pure fighters have already joined the ranks of those who will battle it out for the honors and prizes which will go to the winners of the eight different divisions of the tourney. Inasmuch as yesterday was the first day for entering, it is almost certain that a large number more will get in the melee before the first fights on Friday, Feb 26

All of the fights will be held in the Eagles hall which has a seating capacity of something like 1,000 persons. The bouts will be held on Friday, Feb. 26, Friday, March 4 and Friday, March 11. The tournament has been given the official sanction of the city boxing commission and will be held under its watchful eye

Jimmie Conarty has been engaged to act as third man in the ring for all of the fights. Conarty is a former pugilist of local note and is now connected with the Golden Rule athletic club on Silver street. Two judges will aid Conarty in his task of selecting the winners B. J. Shelton has been named as one of the judges The other has not been named.

Ends DANDRUFF Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly; and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

STOCK SHARES MOVE HIGHER

Regains Upward Trend, but Traders Advance Cautiously.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Feb. 18—The stock market today returned to the upward trend but moved cautiously.

Announcement of action on Pacific's dividend was a factor and caused some unsettlement at the start, but the reduction of Bank of England's discount rate from 6 to 5 per cent, strength in U. S. government bonds and firmness of commodities, soon encouraged resumption of bullish activity.

Pacific dropped 8 points then recovered most of the loss. Several other rails were up a point or two, but soon came back. Leading industrials refused to follow the decline in carriers, and were soon working higher.

Numerous advances of 1 to 3 points were registered during the morning, and while there was a little setback around midday, the advance was resumed during the early afternoon. Issues up 2 or more included American Telephone, American Tobacco "B," American Woolen preferred, and Auburn, and gains of a point or more recorded in U. S. Steel, Standard of N. J., American Can, Woolworth, Dupont, National Biscuit, Allied Chemical and several others. The New York Tractors were again bid up a point or two.

While tangible signs of business improvement were still lacking speculative quarters remained fairly cheerful, despite the market's setback yesterday, after the list had found itself unable to break through the upper resistance levels of January. Conservative quarters in Wall Street felt that a firm and fairly quiet market was desirable, pending real signs of restoration of corporate earning power.

GRAIN PRICES TURN HIGHER

Strength of Liverpool Quotations Aid Values in Chicago Pit.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb 18—An upward trend of grain prices developed early today influenced by relative strength of wheat quotations at Liverpool. Absence of wheat shipments from Balkan countries was a bullish factor at Liverpool, together with a reduction in the British bank rate. Opening unchanged to ¼ higher Chicago wheat futures afterward rose all around. Corn started at ⅛ to ¼ advance and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Renewals of wheat market upturns were in the face of lower prices on securities. Helping to emphasize bullish sentiment as to what were Liverpool assertions that prospective relaxing of European import restrictions would lead to increased purchases, and that the aggregate was likely to prove heavier because of delay. It was added that aggressive rivalry between exporters would continue, but that the large potential demand should gradually advance the basis to more remunerative levels.

Bulls laid particular stress on advices that there were notable indications the import duty on wheat brought into Germany would soon be reduced. Sharp watch also was kept on chances of crop damage to domestic winter wheat. It was contended in some quarters however, that three or four weeks must elapse before the trade could reasonably expect wheat deterioration would provide any decided impulse for a major advance. Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat.

Provisions were neglected.

PILES

Do you suffer from any of the many which are accompanied by constipation? If so, you know how embarrassing and uncomfortable they may be. Some physicians advise operations. But do not fear them. Over 90 per cent of such cases can be relieved without an operation by the regular system except upon the rectal complication. Ask your druggist for Hemo-rid. Hemo-rid is the name of the combined medicine that helps relieve the burning, itching, bleeding, painful, irritating, swelling, bulging piles and helps to prevent infection in the rectum. Ask your druggist for Hemo-rid. Real Cases by name and get what you ask for.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To quickly end stubborn coughs due to colds, it is important to soothe the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, saves money, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

COLDS Break Up in a Jiffy This Quick Way

Feel Like A New Man Almost Before You Know It

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

"I protect my voice with LUCKIES"

THE LOWE DOWN

Nerve? Why Edmund Lowe's a daredevil and a great guy . . . he was one of the first to wear a HIGH HAT TO A PRIZE FIGHT! He can get away with it, because he's got the punch and six feet of brawn! He's a college graduate. Eddie might have been a big league ball player if the movies hadn't snatched him. He's a shrewd business man and has made a fortune. We don't know how much FOX paid him for "THE CISCO KID," but it was worth it. For six years he has smoked LUCKIES. He gets paid plenty for most things, but was paid nothing for his signed statement. We're deeply grateful, Edmund Lowe.

"It's that delightful taste after a cup of coffee that makes LUCKIES a hit with me. And naturally I protect my voice with LUCKIES. No harsh irritants for me... I reach for a LUCKY instead. Congratulations on your improved Cellophane wrapper. I can open it."
